1. [redacted] Met with Frank Slatinshek, Chief Counsel, House Armed Services Committee, who told me that as of the normal close of business this afternoon, he had not heard from GAO representatives concerning the review of the Agency's [redacted] transaction. He will fill me in when he hears from them.

25X1

I filled Slatinshek in on the successful breakfast this morning with Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D., Pa.), House Foreign Affairs Committee, and the Foreign Affairs Committee.

I also told Slatinshek about the morning briefing being provided for the House Speaker, Carl Albert, and that Mr. Duckett, DDS&T, would plan to meet with him and the Chairman hopefully sometime early in the next week to fill them in on a sensitive project.

With regard to the Human Events article on the Marchetti case, Slatinshek told me he would have one of the Subcommittee members put it in the Congressional Record. He, too, liked the tone of the article.

I discussed with Slatinshek the GAO request for personnel and payroll information concerning Agency support of [redacted] from 1970 to 1973. Slatinshek recommended that I talk to Tom Morris, Assistant Comptroller General, GAO, on the Committee's recommendation and review this request with him. In Slatinshek's opinion, the various divisions within GAO seem to be operating on their own initiative, but that Morris, whom Slatinshek thought I would remember from DOD, is most competent and knowledgeable.

2. [redacted] Met with Ralph Preston, House Appropriations Committee staff, who told me that he believed the Proxmire letter to the Committee is the same letter that the Senate received, but he did not have a copy handy.

I briefed him on this morning's successful breakfast with Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D., Pa.), House Foreign Affairs Committee, and the Foreign Affairs Committee; the daily briefings for House Speaker, Carl Albert; the Chinese nuclear test program; and discussed again briefly the GAO request for personnel information for Representative Edward R. Roybal (D., Calif.). Preston cautioned that we should handle this with extreme care.

Preston mentioned in passing that the same questions he had raised originally concerning Reserve releases will be coming up during the briefing with the Director on Monday, 19 August.

The House recess for Labor Day will be from 23 August until

11 September
